

"Hangman's House" Booked at Torrance

Victor McLaglen, celebrated Fox Films player who is cast as Citizen Hogan in "Hangman's House," directed by John Ford, has the distinction of being the best all-around athlete in motion pictures. He has been a soldier, boxer, wrestler, general roustabout and man of all trades in virtually every civilized country in the world. At one time he was reputed the best one-time fighter in Canada and his list of opponents includes the formidable Jack Johnson—when the Black Panther was in his hey-day. While all of McLaglen's roles have been of the fighting type, still they represent strikingly different characters. There is a wide gulf between his "Captain Plagg" in "What Price Glory," and his bull fighter in "Lovers of Carmen." Equally striking was the difference in the characterization required between the faithful Irish giant in "Mother Machree" and the carefree sailor in "A Girl in Every Port." Now in "Hangman's House," Fox Films screen version of Donn Byrne's great novel coming to the Torrance Theatre Sunday and Monday, Aug. 26 and 27, McLaglen is said to surpass even his past achievements with his part of Citizen Hogan, bent on avenging a great wrong.

Graham-Paige Adds Two New-Type Cars

GRAHAM-PAIGE FOUR-PASSENGER PHAETON

GRAHAM-PAIGE FIVE-PASSENGER COUPE

Graham-Paige has announced the addition of two handsome bodies of unusual type, a five-passenger coupe and a two-door phaeton, to its line of four-speed models. The five-passenger coupe appears on the Graham-Paige eight and the 129-inch wheelbase six, priced respectively at $2385 and $2085. The two-door phaeton is offered on the 119-inch and 114-inch sizes at $1745 and $1485.

In addition, a seven-passenger phaeton has been added, at $2410 on the eight and $2110 on the 129-inch six.

The new five-passenger coupe, while seating one more passenger than the usual car of this type, conforms to the accepted coupe lines. Its extra capacity is gained through the use of a full-width rear seat for three passengers and a divided front seat for two.

Aft of the enclosure is the typical coupe deck, gracefully sweeping in its lines, concealing a spacious luggage compartment. A folding trunk rack also is provided. The two-door phaeton is a distinct departure from the usual practice, having been designed especially for those who, though partial to the sports roadster type, desire a car having space for four passengers in any weather, instead of a rumble seat arrangement. The new body type possesses the dressiness of the roadster, while affording plenty of tonneau room for four passengers. The top may be folded back readily, as on the usual roadster. Doors of unusual width, one on each side, serve as the entrance to both front and rear seat. The front seat is divided and either half may be folded forward, giving easy access to the rear passenger compartment.

This announcement followed a public letter of the Los Angeles County Central Republican Committee of Long Beach stating that their organization has also gone on record as endorsing Supervisor McClellan for re-election, based upon his past performance in office. A number of other district Republican clubs have sent endorse-
